THE COTTON MARKETS. NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Special.—Henry Clews & Cc.'s daily cotton letter says: Cetton futures opened higher, in sympathy with the expected advance in Liverpool, but was afterwards offset by the reports of weaker cables and a disposition among Southern traders to liquidate, together with reports about the Anti-Option legislation, which combined to force prices dcwn. The market, however, railied later in the day, closing steady. Port receipts were composing steady. paratively small to-day, but it is thought they will be heavier to-morrow. The situ-ation is still strong, and if it were not for the Anti-Option legislation prices would midoubtedly go higher. Washburn appears confident of getting the bill through, but well-informed people here do not agree

NEW YORK. Dec. 6.—Liverpool opened unchanged, but then advanced 7-64, due, it was said, to a transfer of the Southern buying interest, on account of Anti-Option bill, from this market to that, and as a consequence we opened at an advance of 12 points, but outside of buying by local operators to cover short sales, there was no new buying of note, and the result was a tame speculation. Later the market turned weaker and dropped 10@12 points under further Equidation by the long in terest, due to a reaction in Liverpool of 4-64 and a continued free crop movement, the port receipts for the day being esti-mated at 56,000 bales, against 47,748 bales same day last week and 73,384 bales for the corresponding day last year. A decline was reported in silver, and this was also used to depress values. Crop news continnes generally of an unfavorable character, but so long as the Anti-Optica bill continnes a factor in the market, operators will have eyes for nothing else. The members of the Exchange appear to be mor hopeful, and the belief seems to be rapidly growing that this bill will be defeated. but it seems to be the general opinion that so long as the bill is being agitated it is hopeless to look for any improvement in cotton values, but rather a decline, and possibly a material one. At 1.10 P. M. the market was easy. There was stendy trading in the afternoon, the movement, however, being rather monotonous, Between noon and 2 P. M. there was a rise of 466 points for most months, making a net galu up to that hour of 6609 points. Estimates of probable receipts of 15,000 to 17,000 bales at New Orleans to-morrow, against 12,000 bales last year, caused temporary weakness, which was seen overcome, and the market again moved up to within 3 points of the earliest quotations, during which there was full buying and an impression that a fresh upward feaction would take place. A report from Washington that the Hatch bill would soon be considered by the Senate led to a desire to realize, and a good deal of the advance was once more obliterated. Then came a covering of shorts, which once more lifted prices a few points, January, February, March and April absorbed attention. The March and April absorbed attention. The close was steady at the following quotations: January, 9.1179-12; February, 9.23 69.24; March, 9.35; April, 9.4569,46; May, 9.5569,56; Jure, 9.6569,66; July, 9.7360 9.74; August, 9.7959.81.
